60% of Australians are underpaid. Are your staff among them?

Wage theft has become a hot topic, with household name brands being put under the media spotlight. It seems like every other week there is a new company under scrutiny for underpaying their staff.

While often the errors are innocent, complex modern awards, particularly in the care sectors, can lead to simple miscalculations or misconfiguration of payroll systems can lead to underpayment of staff and major risk of exposure.

We have worked with many organisations to review their payroll and alert them to errors relating to underpayment of their staff. Finding these errors allows the organisation to rectify the problem and mitigate future risk.

Be proactive and undertake a payroll audit with MyPayCheck.

Services:

Many organisations don't know that they are underpaying their staff. Our payroll auditing service is thorough, and includes reviewing key information, including:
